

SiliconCloud October Newsletter

Welcome to the first edition of our new newsletter. This quarterly newsletter will keep you up-to-date with all the latest from SiliconCloud as well as selected updates from our partners.

Communication is important to us. We want you to know what is happening and with these quarterly updates you will. So without further ado, here is what has been happening in the world of SiliconCloud recently!

New Partnership

SiliconCloud is pleased to announce our new partnership with GeoPal. We have become their newest vendor and will begin promoting and selling the GeoPal Mobile Workforce Management software. This cloud and mobile app will simplify your management of mobile workers and help improve productivity.

Cloud Computing Event

We are hosting a Cloud Computing Event in November. The event will include insights into how cloud-based analytics, ERP, CRM and mobile workforce management can help your business. We will have expert speakers from Qlik, NetSuite and GeoPal and customer success stories. We will be sending out the invitations later this week so be sure to watch out for them and get registered soon so you don't miss out.

Partner Updates:

Qlik Sense 2.1

This month Qlik released their third and final update of Qlik Sense for 2015. Qlik Sense 2.1 has a bunch of enhancements including visual exploration, story printing, user data upload, variables and the developer
